

The Studio is resolutely committed to equity, diversity, inclusion, and accessibility in the life and culture of our organization. The Studio will work to center marginalized voices, bodies, and stories.

We will listen and learn about racism, discrimination, and adversity.

We believe that all people deserve access to The Arts, and that The Arts better reflects life when everyone is a part of the conversation. We pledge to make our organization, location, services, and products available to all, to create a welcoming environment to as many people as possible, and to identify, address, and eliminate barriers.

We believe that the sharing of ideas, best practices, and opportunities is a critical component to our organization and the growth of The Arts as a whole. We pledge clear, consistent, and efficient communication to support the needs of our students and the progress of The Arts.

We value the life, stories, and Art that lifts up people from a wide variety of lived experiences. We pledge to support the most vulnerable among us and provide opportunities for all people.

We believe that The Arts allow us to look at the world from a different perspective than our own. The ability to empathize with another's experience is a skill that takes practice, and The Studio pledges to create those opportunities.

We believe in the equitable treatment of people in policies, programs, practices, and services. The Studio is committed to fairness and justice without favoritism or discrimination.

We pledge to conduct business with humility and sincerity, to seek truth in all interactions, to put the needs of our students first, to show respect to those who choose to share their expertise, and to operate with strong moral and ethical standards.

We are committed to providing an inclusive and welcoming environment for all of our students, families, and faculty members. The ability to study with The Studio and to participate in activities (including but not limited to lessons, meetings, educational programs, auditions, interviews, volunteering, performances, and employment), shall not be impacted or diminished because of discrimination due to race, color, national or ethnic origin, ancestry, age, religion or religious creed, disability or handicap, sex or gender, gender identity and/or expression (including transgender identity/expression), sexual orientation, marital status, military service, or other preconceptions or perceived differences.
